ANNA MLAZGAR

1899 - 2004

ANNA MLAZGAR (nee SALAMON)

Anna Mlazgar, one of Saskatchewan's oldest citizens, a beloved mother, grandmother and aunt, died on Monday, March 29, 2004 in her 105th year. Born on June 7, 1899 in Moyer, Pennsylvania, U.S.A., Anna moved to Canada with her family in 1908, settling in Lebret. She lived the rest of her life in the Lebret area and was a faithful member of the Sacred Heart Parish for as long as she was able to attend mass.

"Auntie Annie", as she was known to most in the family, delighted in her little home and garden and lived on her own until the age of 99. She lived a long life and endured more than her share of loss and hardship. Yet, her unshakeable faith, her wisdom and her enduring sense of humour allowed her to go on, despite adversity. Until the end, Anna remained keenly interested in, and devoted to, the members of her extended family, whom she loved to treat to a slice of her traditional, home-made "kolac" as long as she was able to bake. One of her proudest and happiest moments was the outpouring of love and affection from family members on the occasion of her 100th birthday.

Age and infirmity took their toll and eventually Anna could no longer live on her own. She was blessed with loving caregivers in her final years: son, Raymond and grandson Alan and his wife Denise, then, when she required professional care, the staff of the Cupar and District Nursing Home.

Hers was a life well lived, and God has no doubt welcomed her into His arms with the words "Well done, good and faithful servant."

"Zbohom," Grandma. "Go with God."
