Tom was a strong, generous and compassionate man— always willing to lend a hand. Family was of the utmost importance to Tom, demonstrated by the relationships that he had with family and friends. This provided the example to all of us that family came first. He had a strong faith and always felt it important to "do the right thing". Tom was also a lifetime member of the Knights of Columbus. He was passionate about politics, a keen student of history, a proud Irishman, and an avid reader. A skilled carpenter, his many projects will long be treasured by family members.
